DUCE FLAYS F.D.'S 'PEACE'

STORY ON PAGE 2

Miraculous Rescue—Locked in his car at the bottom of Charles River back of Braves Field today, Robert H. Stroatt was brought to land after 30 minutes by firemen. A pulmotor squad brought him back to life as (above) Fireman Bill Malcolm dove into river in search of other bodies.

'F. D. R. UNFAIR'--DUCE

Calls U. S. 10-Year Peace Plea 'Tricky'

ROME, April 20 (INS).—Premier Mussolini today accused President Roosevelt of "unjust and unfair" tactics in forwarding his peace appeal to the European dictators last Saturday.

In a strongly worded speech, Il Duce charged the American President's proposal for a 10-year peace guarantee was "tricky."

Speaking in a low voice filled with heavy irony, Mussolini made his first reply to President Roosevelt's suggestions in the course of an address delivered before the executive committee of the Rome Universal Exhibition of 1942.

He also threw cold water on the President's proposal for a peace conference in which the United States would participate because of the "sour results" of similar conferences in the past.

DENIES AXIS WANTS WAR

At the same time, Il Duce flatly denied that the Rome-Berlin axis "wants war."

His words punctuated by the cheers of his listeners, Mussolini declared:

"If we had any intention of lighting a fuse, if we harbored any hidden aggressive program, we would not be preparing work such as organizing a universal exposition."

HITLER'S MIGHT ON PARADE

BERLIN, April 20 (AP).—Adolf Hitler, the World War corporal who became "augmentor of the Reich," today paraded a cross section of the armed might which gave him mastery of central Europe before distinguished foreign guests attending the celebration of his 50th birthday.

It was the largest military review ever witnessed in Berlin.

Forty thousand soldiers, tanks, motorized equipment and artillery passed by in a parade which lasted four and one-half hours while air squadrons roared overhead.

Shortly before the parade started, Hitler became an honorary citizen

"We would not have invited nations to participate, many of which in the succession of recent events do not follow our ideas."

"If, notwithstanding the stormy atmosphere of the times, we continue work without stopping, it is a promising indication that we do not want to attack anyone, but that we want to work peacefully."

10-YEAR PACT "TRICKY"

"Therefore it is extremely unjust and unfair to place the nations of the axis in the position of the accused."

"Nor is the tricky ten-year (peace) guarantee less absurd, even without taking into account the monumental geographic errors and the most rudimentary notions of European civilization."

As Mussolini uttered these

MILESTONE—Today Chancellor Hitler of Germany, mightiest dictator in Europe, is 50 years old . . . is his power waning or waxing? . . . and what does the future hold for his iron regime? Hitler, 50 Years Old Today, Still Worried Over Throat

Adolf Hitler is fifty-years-old today . . . and it is one of the most important days in world history as the eyes of all nations turn toward him. Is he getting old? Is there a slackening of energy, any dimming of the fire which had driven him on, and on? . . . Answers to these and countless other questions may be found in what follows—a thumbnail portrait of Der Fuehrer.

Brown is his favorite color, and his desks are "tailor-made" to fit him. He has 12 pairs of spectacles, so artfully fashioned that each is intended to exactly fit the state of fatigue he should be in at any given time of the day. He doesn't like to wear them, and put off getting them for years. He thinks it is a partial surrender to the ravages of time.

He is more concerned about his throat and the abscesses which continually plague him, than he is about world peace. It has been decided that there is no cancer, but he worries just the same . . . He can still bellow in a big voice, but, in private, he prefers to talk in what is almost a whisper.

He never drinks alcoholic beverages, nor does he eat meat.

PROUD OF HIS MEMORY

He is particularly proud of his memory, believing that it is a sign of youth to be able to remember well, and he likes to astonish guests by naming offhandedly every unit in both the British and American fleets.

He gave up a salary of 48,000 marks a year as head of the Reich and says that he hasn't any money, nor does he need any. He owns the publishing house which issues "Mein Kampf" and has made millions out of it. He also owns the official motion picture production company of the Reich and, strangely, he knows the cast of every movie comedy. Sometimes he has three movies shown to him, sitting alone, in one evening, and always laughs at all the jokes.

INSOMNIA VICTIM

He is afflicted with terrible sleeplessness, probably due to gas in the war, and is afraid of dying in a big, stone city. He wants to die in his Bavarian Alps.

He lives alone in solitary splendor on the top of a mountain—the Obersalzberg—and has a shaft cut through solid rock to his crag . . .

He likes to think that when he is alone on his mountain he is near the immortal Norse Gods of olden times . . . and that he, too, may live forever . . .

$35,000 BLAZE IN IPSWICH MANSION

IPSWICH, April 20.—The summer mansion of Mrs. William G. Thayer was badly damaged today by a $35,000 blaze during which one fireman was knocked unconscious and several others narrowly escaped injury when a second-floor fire escape collapsed.

Many valuable antiques and rare books were saved by the firemen. Fireman Clifford Comeau was rendered unconscious when the supports of the fire escape gave way. Several other firemen were thrown to the ground.

The blaze was discovered by Miss Emma Safford, employe of a nearby estate, who notified firemen and police. They, in turn, aroused Irving Manser, caretaker of the Thayer estate.

The mansion was being renovated for the arrival of Mrs. Thayer next week.

Roosevelt Ignores Hitler's Birthday

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP).—President Roosevelt will not congratulate Chancellor Hitler on his 50th birthday.

This, a State Department official said today, was in accord with the practice here of not sending birthday greetings to any but ruling monarchs.

Man Under Water Half-Hour Revived

Robert H. Stroatt's lucky star must be in its ascendancy today.

In an amazing victory over death, police and firemen revived the 56-year-old Watertown chauffeur after his car had plunged into the Charles river, behind Braves Field, and he had been in the water half an hour.

DEATH CAR BOY HEARS GIRL CRY FURY IN COURT

George Flaherty, who is 19 today, faced Judge Edward L.

GEORGE FLAHERTY

Logan in South Boston court this morning and heard police tell how he confessed to getting drunk, stealing an automobile and killing a woman with it.

He heard the clerk of the court read out seven charges against him, and then, with a rustling of papers, he heard the judge say:

"Oh, yes, that's one in which the woman was killed and two others were injured."

And he heard a stir in the rear of the room and a girl's voice, frantic, broken with hysteria, shout: "She was my mother!"

Then sobbings and a flurry of movement as court officers hurried to the girl's side to calm her. And, in a daze, he heard the judge fix bail at $10,000 for further hearing April 26.

He was taken to jail and his father, Edward, on relief, started out to try and find a lawyer to defend him.

Earlier, the boy, who is an elevator operator in a Boston hospital, and lives with his family of 10 at 253 W. 4th st., South Boston, told the whole story of what happened Sunday, according to police. They said he told of stealing the car, of driving into South Boston, and of how he lost control.

Mrs. Anna Rakutis, 45, of Brockton. Continued on Page 9, Column 1

So long had Stroatt been submerged with the car that firemen had arrived and, with police, were diving in the deep water for several minutes before he was taken from the machine.

Although all present believed Stroatt to be dead, members of Rescue Co. No. 1 set to work on him with pulmotor and inhalator, while Patrolman Arthur Maguire of Brighton station employed artificial respiration.

To the astonishment of the workers, signs of life were observed after 10 minutes.

FIREMAN ALSO STRICKEN

Stroatt was hurriedly placed in a police ambulance and rushed to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, the firemen continuing to work over him during the ride.

Also along as a patient, suffering from immersion and exhaustion, was Fireman Thomas Maloney of Ladder 14, Brighton, who had hauled Stroatt out of the car in 12 feet of water after several dives.

Maloney was kept at the hospital, where doctors finally brought the chauffeur completely around.

Although it was first believed two men were in the car, Stroatt, who lives at 142 Langdon avenue, Watertown, and who is employed by Charles A. Clark of Garfield street, that town, said he had been alone.

He had already driven Mrs. Caroline Goodsell, Clark's daughter, and her son, Freddie, 14, to Boston for some shopping and perhaps a movie. Earlier he had taken Mrs. Goodsell's nine-year-old boy Charles to the Browne and Nichols school in Cambridge, where he is a student.

Stroatt was driving in Soldiers Field road almost opposite Magazine Beach when the car struck a tree, veered off, rolled across 25 feet of open field and dived into the river, which shelves off sharply.

Alfred Varriale, 23, of Cutter street, Waltham, another motorist, observed the accident and reported it to Patrolman William Malcolm of Back Bay station, who was on detail with Motor Vehicle Inspector John L. Dwyer, stopping cars without stickers on Bay State rd.

Spring! Well, It Gets Here

Somewhat late but ever welcome, a popular visitor—almost unknown in these parts since its scheduled March 21 arrival—came to town today.

It was identified by such characteristics as a shining sun, rising temperatures, gentle zephyrs and the sudden multi-colored attire of an astounded citizenry.

It announced itself this morning with temperatures in the higher 50's and predictions of warmer weather during the day.

Its name, by the way, is Spring.

Woman Who Jilted President Arthur Dies

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP)—Millie Butterfield, who once jilted President Chester A. Arthur, is dead here.

Miss Butterfield was the daughter of Theodore Faxon Butterfield, mayor of Utica, N. Y., in 1872, and a founder of the American Express Company. She was a society beauty in the 1880's and later became an actress.

$5000 TAX POST FOR BACIGALUPO

Appointments to two important posts in the state government were sent by Governor Saltonstall today to his executive council for approval.

Stephen D. Bacigalupo, 51, prominent in Republican circles in Dorchester, was nominated for chief legal adviser to the state appellate tax board to succeed Edward V. Lee, resigned. The post pays $5000 a year.

Bacigalupo, married and the father of five children, is head of Neperia lodge of the A. F. and A. M., grand master of arms of the Knights of Pythias and assistant grand marshal of the Sons of Italy. He is a graduate of Boston University.

Lee, who resigned, was appointed by Governor Hurley, and, previously, was an assistant corporation counsel during the regime of Mayor Mansfield. A brother is one of the secretaries of Attorney-General Paul A. Dever.

Dr. Thomas P. Greene of New Bedford was nominated for membership on the state board of dental examiners, succeeding Dr. M. Francis Hinds, also of New Bedford, whose term has expired.

Governor Saltonstall also designated Arthur G. Burnett of Somerville as chairman of the State Alcohol Beverage Commission to succeed William P. Hayes, Springfield Democrat, chairman of the commission since its foundation six years ago.

SNAPPED at opening game of Detroit Tigers was Mrs. Daniel Dodge, once a north woods telephone operator and now the widow of Danny Dodge, wealthy auto scion. Dodge lost his life through drowning after being burned in a gasoline explosion.

U. S. WARSHIPS LOOKING FOR SUB

Renewed vigilance was maintained by navy ships, coast guard craft and fishing boats off the New England coast today, following reports that a foreign submarine again was sighted lurking in Nova Scotian waters.

Canadian press dispatches said Capt. William Latta, veteran skipper of the Halifax Harbor pilot boat, saw the underside of a boat enter Halifax Harbor early yesterday.

The boat was partly submerged and picked up speed as it slid past the pilot boat toward harbor, Capt. Latta said.

Others who saw the mystery submarine were crew members of the freighter Cornerbrook, outward bound from Halifax to Glasgow, and fueled. Half a dozen skippers of Nova Scotian fishing trawlers reported seeing the foreign submarine during the week-end, off the Maine coast and southern tip of Nova Scotia.

Four units of the British navy in Halifax today received orders to join the search. The destroyers, the Skeena and Saguenay, and two mine sweepers received their sailing orders last night and today all four craft were being provisioned and fueled.

'Enemy' Fleet Nears Coast, Fliers Ready

A theoretical enemy fleet was reported "somewhere off the north Atlantic coast" at 10:30 a. m. today.

Equipped with long-range bombers, and with every possible new device for the destruction of cities along the seaboard, from Boston to Atlantic City, with New York as the main object of attack, the fleet was reported heading in at full steam.

It was feared the attack would open with gas over the urban centers to destroy the morale of the populace.

But the Second Wing of the Army Air Corps, GHQ, was on the theoretical job, co-operating with the navy—notably the submarine forces from New London, Ct., and the coast guard.

PROTECT GUARD

Headquarters for the air part of the war games were established in Providence, with divisions of activity at Mitchell Field, L. I., and here in Boston. The area being "protected" is theoretically bounded on the north by the Massachusetts-New Hampshire line and on the south by Atlantic City.

The "line of defense" is, theoretically, 400 miles at sea, and also includes eight submarines and the Coast Guard fleet of the area.

Brig-Gen. Arnold N. Krogstad is in charge of the air maneuvers, while Gen. Hugh A. Drum is directing the army defense. There are about 50 planes in the maneuvers, manned by 200 officers.

48 PLANES IN AIR

America's might of the air took to the skyways shortly before noon at Hillsgrove, R. I., to defend the industrial northeast.

At 11:45 a. m. all of the navy's 48 long-range patrol planes took off from their moorings at Potter's Cove in Narragansett bay. They headed northwest but there was a possibility they headed to sea later in search of the attacking "black fleet," commanded by Rear Admiral Alfred W. Johnson.

A few minutes before the second bombardment group of 19 planes streamed across the sky. Brig-Gen. Arnold N. Krogstad, commanding the second wing of the army air force, arrived at the state airport at Hillsgrove and said the maneuvers were under way and that the "flying fortresses" were on the alert.

Fuel Strikers Plan To Picket Stations

Pickets of maritime and oil workers' unions threatened today to set up guards around gasoline stations, a procedure already in effect in New York city, unless employers meet their demands.

At the same time, however, state officials were informed that strike negotiators had made progress and that one of four oil firms involved was reported willing to make a compromise.

Officials of the Socony-Vacuum Co. and the Tidewater Oil Co. stated that they had received reports of efforts by the picket lines to halt trucks making deliveries, but that trucks went through.

There were few trucks on the road yesterday, however, because of the holiday and the fact that most filling stations had been loaded up since trucks began rolling Monday in a truce in the A. F. of L.

coal chauffeurs' war with the Retail Fuel Institute.

Trucks would be withdrawn from the road in event of continued picketing, it was indicated, with a forecast of another shortage of gasoline and oil by Sunday.

In addition to the C. I. O. picket lines at oil farms and wharves where four tankers are tied up by walkout of the men, the maritime union launched a new idea in picketing by sending out a fleet of small fast cruisers to prevent any attempt to man or move the tied up tankers.

Trooper George T. Knox on May 22, 1937, was in a state of mind which might have led her to attempt suicide.

Such was the opinion expressed by Dr. Samuel Tartakow, Brookline psychiatrist, testifying for the defense at Knox's trial today before Judge Lewis Goldberg.

The opinion was not expressed without a battle between Defense Counsel James McGrail and Prosecutor Edward M. Sullivan, a battle which lasted all morning and was only decided by Judge Goldberg after hearing lengthy arguments.

20-MINUTE QUESTION

The judge ruled it was a matter for the jury to consider, whereupon McGrail read to the witness a hypothetical question, so long it took 20 minutes for the reading.

The question was, in substance, a summing up of all evidence so far offered by the defense—evidence tending to show that Mrs. Dale was an alcoholic, given to frequent moody, brooding spells; that she had attempted suicide at least once before, and that she had indicated by notes and other means that she might try it again.

WOULD REQUIRE TIME

Doctor Tartakow listened attentively, and then said:

"It was a matter of hours, or days—possibly longer—when the person referred to in the hypothetical question would achieve to a state of mind which might prompt her to suicide."

There was only one other witness at the morning session, a prosecution witness, allowed to testify by agreement because she had to leave the city.

The witness, a nurse, testified that Mrs. Dale was in New Haven, Conn., at a time when defense witnesses have testified she was in Boston.

LOST OUT—New York drama critics' circle couldn't make up its collective minds and so failed to name an award to what it thought the best American play of the season. Included in the ballot were six votes to "The Little Foxes," which stars Tallulah Bankhead (above).

Educated Truck Douses Fire by Dive Into Brook

It turned out today that Roger Brown, a Lexington farmer, has an educated truck.

Deserted by two riders after it caught fire, the truck promptly swerved off the road in Stoneham and dove into a brook, extinguishing the flames.

Clarence Baker, 27, of Marrett road, Lexington, the driver, suffered back and leg injuries when he leaped from the machine. His companion, Romano Castonguay, 26, of Merrimack street, Lowell, sustained a face laceration and minor injuries.

When firemen arrived they found the brook had put out the fire, which had come up through the floor boards, as Baker was driving in Franklin street.

N. E. Rivers Rising To Near Flood-Mark

Steadily today the rivers and streams of New England were rising in flood threats as a combination of deep mountain snows, yesterday's heavy rains and today's higher temperatures loosed "sudden water."

Even before yesterday's rains the rivers had begun to rise and today at Lowell the Merrimack was less than three feet from the danger mark.

At Bellows Falls, Vt., hydroelectric engineers predicted a flow of 30,000 cubic feet a second in the Connecticut river, four times the normal rate, by tomorrow.

Lewiston, Me., reported the Androscoggin river flow at about 8000 cubic feet a second as the result of deep snow starting to melt, and yesterday's inch of rain.

FIVE BRIDGES GONE

At Charlestown, the long down-pour and melting snows swelled streams so greatly that five temporary bridges were swept away last night.

The swollen waters of Clay Creek, one mile north of Charlestown, N. H., broke through a culvert today and caused a 150-foot washout of Boston & Maine tracks on the Springfield-White River Junction line.

Passengers on the Washington were transferred at Claremont.

by bus to Bellows Falls, where the Boston-Montreal train was halted. Those bound for Montreal were taken by bus to Claremont.

PLOWS CLEAR TRACKS

At Randolph, N. H., snow loosed by the rains rolled down Mt. Adams and piled up on the railroad tracks at Cold Brook bridge, delaying trains until plows could clear away the block, eight to 10 feet high.

The Concord River overflowed in Hillsborough today at what is termed the freshest stage, with the waters covering marshlands.

At Pawtucket Falls, Lowell, the Merrimack river is flowing at 89 feet above sea level, which is about three feet short of a full freshet.

When the flow reaches 92 feet at this point the lowlands become flooded, but when it reaches 94 feet there comes a full flood.

Officials of the Locks and Canals Corporation, which operates the mill canals along the Merrimack, said today they expected the river would reach the full freshet stage by Saturday.

3-FOOT DAY RISE

They have received reports that there are still 10 to 12 feet of snow in the mountains.

In two days the Merrimack has risen an average of two feet a day. Several weeks ago, however, Public Works Commissioner William F. Callahan, in an unprecedented action, established flood emergency offices in various parts of the state in an attempt to cut flood dangers and inconveniences down to a minimum and prevent scenes of previous years.

According to Public Works Department engineers, all main highways in Western Massachusetts which were flooded yesterday were open today.

The Housatonic river, they said, is still rising, but is expected to begin receding tonight.

Several back roads are flooded between Colrain and Rowe and Colrain and Hawley and in the townships of Heath, Charlestown, Sheffield and Great Barrington—all from small streams.

The great danger now, the engineers said, is from sudden heavy rains.

First Lady's Plane Held Aloft by Fog

FARGO, N. D., April 20 (INS)—Carrying Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt as one of its six passengers, a Northwest airlines plane today finally landed in Minneapolis shortly after noon after being forced back to Fargo by rain and fog.

The nation's First Lady was reported unruffled and not in the least frightened by her experience in cruising for three hours over North Dakota and Minnesota in the plane unable to land.

Mrs. Roosevelt was expected to reach Chicago on the plane about 3 p. m. about four hours behind schedule. The plane was to proceed to Chicago after stopping briefly at Minneapolis, where the fog meanwhile was clearing.

Originally, the plane took off from Fargo at 6:45 a. m., and was scheduled to land at Wold-Chamberlain Field, Minneapolis, at 8:05 a. m.

Because of the fog and rain the pilot slowed to a cruising speed, and then circled Minneapolis slow, the plane, unable to land.

Conditions were deemed impossible for landing, and the plane was finally ordered back to Fargo.

It remained in Fargo only long enough to refuel. Airport attendants said Mrs. Roosevelt was in excellent humor, and laughed about the delay.

Mrs. Roosevelt has cancelled three speaking engagements, and is returning East from Seattle to attend the funeral of her nephew, Daniel Roosevelt, 21, of Dedham, Mass., who was killed in an airplane crash yesterday in Mexico.

Television Perfected; On Sale This Week

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP)—The advent of television, long heralded as the beginning of a new American industry, was announced today by David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, in a television broadcast from the RCA exhibit building at the World's Fair.

The ceremonies were attended by a group of business and professional men who inspected the television receivers which go on sale this week.

Eight miles away, in the RCA building at Rockefeller Center, an audience watched and heard the ceremonies.

The television models on display ranged from an attachment which reproduces pictures only, plugging into a radio set for sound, to a large combination television and sound receiver, employing a 12-inch kineoscope tube.

The attachment direct-viewing type shows pictures 3½ inches deep by 4½ inches wide, and the largest model pictures 7½ by 9½ inches, which are reflected from a mirror.

Price of the television attachment will be about $175. Sight and sound receivers range from $300 to $600.

• Eighteen years ago Paul A. Thomas devised the first accurate, reliable method of treating local scalp disorders. Then, as today, Thomas treatment ended dandruff, stopped abnormal hairfall and promoted hair growth on thin and bald spots. It consistently produces these results—and because of its success, The Thomas' have grown to an organization with 45 offices throughout the United States and Canada.

Today Thomas treatment is more effective than it has ever been. New methods are constantly being tested and when something is proved to be of definite value, Thomas clients are the first to receive benefit. Inn Keeper Admits Being Torso Slayer BALTIMORE, April 20 (AP)—Police Commissioner Robert F. Stanton announced today police had obtained a confession from a man held in the Baltimore torso murder.

The commissioner said Inspector Stephen G. Nelson had informed him the prisoner had given complete details of the killing of the woman, parts of whose body were found in the man's backyard and parts in various sewers.

Commissioner Stanton said the man was Aurelio Marco Tarquinio, 45, a steelworker and former tavern keeper. The slain woman was Evelyn Rice, a barmaid, who formerly worked for him.

The victim's head and other portions of her butchered body were unearthed in Tarquinio's backyard earlier in the day.

Police had gone to his East Baltimore home after arresting him for six hours.

Mrs. Louise Bridges, a neighbor, said the Rice woman was from somewhere in Georgia. Police said they understood her home town was Americus, Ga.

She lived in Tarquinio's home and had been missing since Thursday. Police found the head buried in quicklime under a layer of bricks.

As they lifted the head from the pit, Frank M. Peterson, a neighbor, leaned over his back fence, glanced at the long streaming hair and said:

"That's Evelyn."

JUST 13—Grown tall and gawky, Lillibet Windsor already is learning to act with dignity becoming a probable future queen of England . . . more so now than ever as she awaits her 13th birthday tomorrow.

End, "snapped" the switch and drove off with it.

"I had been drinking heavily throughout Sunday afternoon. I took a bus from South Boston to the South End, I found the doors of this car unlocked and got in. I drove into South Boston and on Mercer st., between Eighth and Ninth sts. I tried to shift the gears and lost control of the car.

"It struck a pole and careened across the street. The women were about 10 feet in front of me, but I couldn't stop. It knocked one of them to one side, another went under the car. Then the car crashed into a fence, knocked it down and stopped.

"I got up and ran into Ninth st. and after awhile I fell asleep on a doorstep. That is all I remember. Later I went home. Next day I went to work as usual."

THREATEN SOFT COAL STRIKE

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP)—A complete shutdown of the nation's soft coal mines on May 5, unless a new contract is signed before that date, has been ordered by the United Mine Workers.

The order, climaxing a six-weeks' deadlock in negotiations between union and operators for the eight-state Appalachian area, threatened to pull 125,000 men from bituminous workings in 13 states. Approximately 350,000 have been idle in the Appalachian region and in Alabama since the old two-year contract died April 1.

CIO Chairman John L. Lewis, who heads the mine workers, also has said he would call out 100,000 anthracite miners, if necessary to force an agreement. This would leave 585,000 miners idle and increase the growing menace of a national coal shortage.

Lewis and other union leaders began conferring two days ago with hard coal operators for a new contract to replace the three-year anthracite industry agreement which expires April 30.

His action in the bituminous dispute came in the form of an order to district leaders in the 13 outlying states to give operators the 15 days' notice required before closing the mines.

One hundred local poultry farms, nestled in New England's arms, send us daily a thousand eggs of extra-brown, fresh brown eggs. The hens that lay them, valued highly, live the pampered life of Riley. They do not have to scratch for food, but dine—this Babylonian brood—on the equivalent of steak, caviar, ice cream and cake. You'd think from these expensive colors, that roosters drew enormous salaries. The eggs laid in this feathered harem are not selected harem-eggs, but have to pass a test demanding details on their social standing; and every egg is asked to state its best-measure and its weight. Each egg adjudged O.K. for YOU must have a very high IQ. If it rates high, the morsel can expect to reach your frying pan.

Arms Supply Chief Named for Britain

LONDON, April 20 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain announced in the House of Commons today a new ministry of supply would be established to expedite the manufacture of arms for Britain's expanding army.

Leslie Burgin, minister of transport, was appointed head of the new ministry with rank as a cabinet member.

Presumably to quiet rumors that the new ministry would not have full powers over the supply of munitions, the Prime Minister announced it would be a ministry of supply "in the full sense."

CARDINAL RAPS U. S. MEDDLING

Cardinal O'Connell was on record today as opposed to "meddling" by the United States in the affairs of other countries.

The message was delivered by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis L. Phelan, chancellor of the diocese, to a meeting of Massachusetts State Council, Knights of Columbus at the Copley Plaza.

Msgr. Phelan prefaced his remarks by saying: "I am telling you what His Eminence gave me to give to you."

"Washington counseled caution in approaching the problems which involve our nation in the affairs of other nations," said Msgr. Phelan.

"Washington counseled prudent and calm consideration of those problems and bluntly told us as a nation to mind our own business and not to meddle in the affairs of other nations."

"What Washington said to the citizens of his day is good, sound patriotic advice in these days. This true patriotism—the patriotism of Lincoln and of Washington—is not so evident in the affairs of government today."

"There is a great deal of hysteria about the dangers which face our people at this moment. It is being stirred up by certain individuals for their own selfish purposes, as it manifestly is not for the good of the nation."

Msgr. Phelan also paid his respects to the "flag wavers" working for their own selfish interests.

Hitler Reviews His Might on Birthday

of the Free City of Danzig, receiving the citizenship papers from the hands of Albert Forster, Nazi district leader of the free city.

CITIZENSHIP, NO CITY

There had been rumors that Danzig German territory before the World War, might be a birthday present for the Fuehrer, but Hitler received only the honorary citizenship.

Features of the parade were mammoth new types of long range air defense artillery, emphasis on motorized artillery and development of air defense units.

The grimmest engines of war, however, were seen with the passage of a regiment of heaviest artillery.

First came caterpillar trucks, each drawing a six-inch or eight-inch cannon.

Then came four immense pieces of artillery, apparently 10-inch guns. Each was carried on five trucks for the mount and mechanism and one for the gun barrel.

IN WAR SPLENDOR

There was only one of these super-cannons in last year's parade and the sight of four drew one of the greatest cheers of the day.

Hitler, surrounded by his closest collaborators, attentively reviewed the entire parade from a canopied tribune erected along the "Avenue of Splendor."

The weather was ideal, and hundreds of thousands of spectators were out.

The air defense guns obviously awed the observers from abroad. There were no real clues as to the calibers of the new weapons.

The heavy artillery of the air force included types of guns never seen publicly before in Berlin. Authorities enforced strict orders against photographing them.

RIGID IN SALUTE

A dozen or so of these weapons bore the words, "Fifty-five atmospheres" on them, others the words, "Fifty-eight atmospheres."

Hitler looked straight ahead at the sight of the passing troops with his hand outstretched in the Nazi salute. But in the case of a unit of parachute jumpers, he gazed after them approvingly, even when they had long passed the stand.

Spectators wondered how much of the new equipment shown for the first time originated in Czech-Slovakia, whose great arms works passed to German control with the dismemberment of the republic.

The United States was repre-ented at the review by Charge d'Affaires Raymond H. Geist. The United States embassy flew the Stars and Stripes in keeping with the custom for such events. Britain's and France's colors also were displayed at their embassies.

TRIUMPHANT DAY

Much commented on was the fact that Papi Nuncio Cesare Orsenigo headed the diplomatic corps in the grandstand directly opposite Hitler's canopied reviewing stand. The Vatican's representative was seen to use his binoculars interestedly.

Before leaving the chancellery to take his place in the reviewing stand, Hitler spent busy hours receiving congratulations. The band of Hitler's Schutzstaffel (Black-shirt bodyguard) opened the festivities for him with a serenade.

The German official news agency announced the guests included representatives of Italy, Japan, Spain, Hungary, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Bulgaria, Denmark, Finland, Greece, Yugoslavia, Lithuania, the Netherlands, Norway, Rumania, Sweden, Siam, Slovakia and Turkey.

By the declaration of his No. 1 aide, Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Hitler was "the greatest German of all times" and in the words of his No. 2 aide, Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, the Fuehrer's name "wanders around the earth almost like legend."

British Puzzled As Nazi Fleet Avoids Channel

LONDON, April 20 (AP)—England wondered today whether the German fleet had skirted the tip of Scotland to avoid the English channel on its way from Kiel and Wilhelmshaven to Spanish waters for maneuvers.

The fleet of 30 to 40 ships had been expected in the channel, but had not been sighted there or in the North sea. Berlin announced its departure Tuesday.

The British admiralty and Lloyd's said they had no reports.

As for the international trend towards the liberalization of foreign exchange, in which the United States is a leader, the Soviet Union is also taking steps to liberalize its foreign exchange system. In the past, the Soviet Union had a very strict foreign exchange control system, and the foreign exchange market was a monopoly of the state. But in recent years, the Soviet Union has been gradually liberalizing its foreign exchange system, and the foreign exchange market has become more and more open. This is a significant change in the Soviet Union's foreign exchange policy, and it reflects the Soviet Union's efforts to reform its economic system and to integrate with the world economy.

IN PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S messages to Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini pleading for an international peace conference occurs this momentous phrase:

"And in those discussions the government of the United States will gladly take part."

Unquestionably a "peace party" should be called. No civilized human being can find any objection to the President's humane proposal.

England, France, Germany and Italy can arrive at a solution of the European situation much better by negotiation than by war.

The problems of Europe are their problems. Another war would probably create new problems for them without solving the existing problems.

Only by international conference and agreement, and in no other way, can the nations of Europe assure peace and stability among themselves.

But in such an international conference the United States SHOULD NOT BE A PARTY.

Read again if you please the phrase from President Roosevelt's message to Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini quoted above.

He then, on his own responsibility, PLEDGES the American people to sit in a world conference to settle questions of territorial divisions in which OUR PEOPLE HAVE NO POSSIBLE INTEREST.

This pledge is made WITHOUT THE CONSENT OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE OR THEIR ELEGED REPRESENTATIVES IN CONGRESS HAVING BEEN ASKED.

The phrase, unfortunately, smacks of those very PERSONAL and DICTATORIAL queries that President Roosevelt has been denouncing.

NOWHERE have the people of the United States at any time sanctioned their willingness to become a part of strictly European "peace" and "war."

In fact, every patriotic citizen is entitled that they want no part in any "discussion" that is foreign to their interests and traditions.

Further than that, the President has DISQUALIFIED himself as a participant in any such round-table because he has ALREADY TAKEN SIDES in no uncertain tones.

Not only is the President DISQUALIFIED to sit in at such a party because of his AVOIDED SYMPATHIES but still further and thus to the greater degree for his disqualification because he is attempting to force the American people without consulting them or their Congress into the same sort of boob-trap that the leadership of the allied President Wilson into at Versailles.

The voice of the American people save unanimously:

"A peace conference by all means!"

And change JUST AS UNANIMOUSLY:

"But we MUST STAY OUT OF IT, for it is not our business!"

Our purpose must be—peaceful relations with all other countries—unfettered and untrammelled.

THE 43D MARATHON was under Boston Athletic Association auspices today. "Tarzan" Brown the winner you remember but apparently the endurance and stamina of today's athlete.

Two thousand four hundred and twenty-nine years ago the first of all "Marathons" was run. A Greek, Pheidippides by name, was the sole runner in the race.

His army victorious in the famous Battle of Marathon, he hastened over the 22-mile route to Athens, reached Athens, but dropped dead at the city gate shouting: "Rejoice, we conquer."

That was the ANCIENT ATHLETE.

Now the story is more cheerful, and "Tarzan" Brown is proof. Having won in 1936 without gasping and dying, he was back yesterday not only to break his own record but also to run faster than any other champion had run.

Truly there is more in the modern Marathon than meets the eye. There is the story of man's slow progress through the ages. You know man's brain improves. You like to think his body keeps pace.

Brown's marvelous achievement encourages that belief.

REPRESENTATIVE WENZLER of South Boston views the proposed investigation of the Massachusetts pardon and parole system with pessimism.

When the question of appropriating $2000 for the inquiry was before the House, Mr. Wenzler cast the lone dissenting vote. "The probe will do good," he said.

WHY NOT GIVE THIS LEGISLATOR AN OPPORTUNITY TO PROVE THAT THE PROBE CAN DO GOOD?

If he finds a lot of crookery among others on Beacon Hill, let him supplement and OVERCOME it with his own courageous determination to reveal the facts the people demand.

Certainly there is no law against Mr. Wenzler's becoming a member of the commission which will be appointed to do the investigation.

Human Side of News -1-

by EDWIN C. HILL

FROM NOTES made by Nurse Edith Cavell during her hospital service in Brussels and her imprisonment before execution as a spy. Herbert Warren, British film director, who had a new screen story, this time with sound and speech.

Edith Cavell, a woman of 37, was attached to a Red Cross Unit in Brussels. Miss Louise Thobois, a professor of mathematics at Louvain, was vacationing near Valenciennes when the British retreat from Mons took place. Six of the British wounded were left behind and Miss Young, Frenchwoman and then in the obedience of the German order that all British wounded be interned.

Other soldiers found their way to the shelters provided by the daring Frenchman. One by one, and a total 200 to 250 in Brussels and to Nurse Cavell.

WITH THE ENGLISH soldiers safely spirited into Holland, Miss Thobois, Edith Cavell and their little band turned to the reputation of Frenchmen in the world. But their actions were disclosed.

HUGH GIBSON
Desperately, He Pleaded

Arrests followed and the ringleaders were sentenced to be shot.

American Ambassador (Irish) Whitlock moved heaven and earth to save Nurse Cavell. But on the eve of the execution he was taken very ill. In his place, Hugh Gibson, then first Secretary of the Embassy, made a last, desperate appeal. He broke in upon the dinner of the Spanish Ambassador, the Marquis de Villalobar, and implored him to go with him to the Germans. They hastened to Baron von der Lancken. The Marquis said to von der Lancken:

"Miss Cavell may have sent hundreds of men to the front by means of her ambulance. But if you will kill her she will send millions against you from her tomb."

Von der Lancken shrugged his shoulders. He did not think the execution would be immediate, although General von Sauterweil, Acting Governor, was intent on it. The Marquis urged him to telephone to the Kaiser. But the German, amazed, exclaimed:

"But one can't telephone the Emperor!"

IN HIS DIARY, the Marquis intimates that later von der Lancken suggested that he had not taken the matter up with the Emperor because the latter was incensed for in the gray dawn of October 12 Edith Cavell went down to the firing squad. Her last words were: "Patriotism is not enough."

Girl About Town -1-

IT IS NOT UNUSUAL for organization to back a worthy cause, but it is new when the man launches a crusade that is non-partisan and non-political.

The man is Fred Richardson of Watertown, who keeps busy enough with his own family and affairs but has time to think of others.

He would like to see a child in every home in the city.

That is what he is going to do. He is going to see that every child in the city is exempted from the orphanage and is instead in a family home and is loved and cared for.

He proposes to start a nation wide movement to get children from orphanages and to put them in family homes. He is going to start a true American orphanage.

It is a very good idea to capture the imagination of the people.

EVERY YEAR, some 100,000 orphans of the United States are in orphanages. Fred Richardson of Watertown, Mass., is going to start a true American orphanage. He is going to see that every child in the city is exempted from the orphanage and is instead in a family home and is loved and cared for.

He has been working for the cause for some time. He has been in the city for some time. He has been in the city for some time.

Political Parade -1-

by GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The fourth day of the political parade of the country opened with a whiff of a new breeze. The new breeze was a real breeze from the Democratic Party, and a real breeze for the New Deal.

Hinsley is going to be the Republican candidate for the National House of Representatives in the ranks of the defeated.

But for J. C. Hinsley, a capable department head, the party of which he was so good an exponent, it would not have been necessary for Hinsley to be a Republican winning the prize of a seat in a Congressional committee in 1942, in which year Senator Hinsley's seat would again have been at the disposition of the voters.

Now it will be necessary for Hinsley to be a Republican next year, and 1949, by all the signs, isn't going to be a good year for Democrats.

WHEN DWIGHT D. Green made his remarkable race as Republican candidate for Mayor of Chicago a week or so ago, losing to Mayor Ed Kelly by only 183,000, the Democratic brass hats in Washington understood well what that signified, for all their songs of praise in hailing another Democratic victory.

MAYOR ED KELLY
"The Brass Hats Understood"

That vote showed a Republican strength in Chicago, in the sixth year of the New Deal, which indicates that the jig is nearly up so far as Illinois is concerned.

The Republican Party, with its normal down-state plurality, is better than 200,000, ought to be able to capture the State next year in both the Senatorial, and State House Representative contests.

THIS CRACK in the New Deal armor in the Middle West and the necessity of putting up a senatorial candidate a year hence, instead of three years hence, will help the Republicans in the task they have set themselves for 1949 the recapture of the agricultural vote.

G. O. P. strategists were planning to take Illinois back into the fold in the next Presidential campaign. The death of Senator Lewis weakened the opposition.

Formidable as seems the hold of the New Deal Democratic coalition on both branches of Congress, it is not as strong as the mere statement of House and Senate majorities would seem to indicate.

The Senate still seems likely to be controlled by Democrats until 1945, but there are already so many signs that the next House will be Republican that privately in their cloakroom conversations a great many Democrats are already conceding it.

Austen Lake: A Marathon Ride On Tarzan's Legs

LET'S TAKE A FIVE-MINUTE RIDE on Tarzan Brown's legs and see the B. A. A. Marathon as he saw it—the hard way, as though, he says, he might have dreamed the 26 miles and 385 yards between the burgeoning greens of Hopkinton and the brick canyons of Exeter Street.

AUSTEN LAKE

Tarzan's impressions of his race were those of disembodied spirit in which, though he broke the course record by nearly two minutes, time stretched to eternities and space seemed an endless vacuum. So now, as he thinks back, it is as though it never happened, except for the news headlines, an ache in his thighs and surgical tape across his heels.

As the pack scattered after the start, Brown settled down to shadow the burly figure of Walter Young, studying the steady churn of his rump and listening to the rhythmic chuff-chuff of rubber-soled shoes. The two ran grimly, like Siamese twins, their eyes on the asphalt and feeling the soft kiss of the mist.

For Tarzan, the big Canadian, had an intimate, personal meaning and the beating of his feet seemed to reiterate the same persistent message: "Beat Young... Beat Young."

Ahead of the runner lean and rubbery figure of Leslie Pawson, fast footed and I found shuffled little Johnny Kelley, the Boston post judge. The rest were meaningless shapes that ran like shadows in Tarzan's fevered mind. Ugh-ugh.

Pawson Falls Back

PAST THE OUTSKIRTS OF FRAMINGHAM and the first fringe of curious faces Tarzan knew that his internal chemistry was adjusting to the long grind. He was untouched by the swift pangs of nausea which was thumping down the field. But there was a hot surge of blood in his ears and his neck felt like twin hard-boiled eggs. The spittle in his mouth was like the fibres of fine wool and his parched tongue stuck to the roof of his mouth. But he resisted the temptation to suck the lemon halves and paper balls of water which were proffered by the official car. Ugh-ugh!... Ugh-ugh!

For a while, he said, he amused himself by watching the nervous jump of Young's pink leg muscles, like the thighs of a leaping frog. Heel and toe, step-and-stride. Ugh-ugh!

The distant spires of Natick now and the stylish Pawson had paid for his prancing stride, sagging back and massaging his ribs below the heart. The price of being briefly over-conscious.

Tarzan Pulls Away on the Hills

THOUGH BROWN SAID THE SINGING in his ears subsided once past Natick's traffic lights, there was a hammering in his temples. Tentatively he let Young draw a little away while he took careful stock of his person. Feet firm! Knees sound! Stomach sweet! Lungs pumping quietly!

Now was the time to test Young and shake off the remaining disciples. He had played too timidly the last two years and lost his races in the middle. Now let the field come to him. Tentatively he edged his legs down even with his arms folded against his breast like a Thanksgiving goose, sucking deeply of the cool sweet air and lifting his face gratefully to the rain.

The red-lined dormitories of Wellesley were just ahead with a gay drizzle of girl students—the traditional half-way spot. Cheers that were almost audibly coming to his ears, but both men jogged on with eyes fixed on the road, not on the crowd. Heel-and-toe, Ugh-ugh!

Beyond Wellesley, under lay the Newton Hills and he knew that there he must get the best out of his bones while he still felt fit. If a later spasm, and he had finish on nerve and the dregs of his strength. At the first top of an amateur samaritan ran out and eloped him with the contents of water cups and suddenly Tarzan realized he was running alone, some from the tail of his eye Young drifting to the rear.

Passes His Danger Point

AS HE PASSED OVER THE LAST UPGRADE beyond Boston College he felt his first sickening qualms and an opaque mist swam across his eyes. But he spurned the little white glucose tablets offered by the medical car—fast burning fuel, but risky and disorienting. And presently the mist cleared and he picked up the tempo to waste away with a leaden lops.

Beacon Street now and the last long agony. Thicker crowds and oceans of sound. Would he escape the staggering nausea that had almost overpowered him in '36 when he had reeled blindly near Kenmore square and almost swooned against a passing fender.

At Cleveland Street the crowd broke through the restraining ropes and swelled across the street, making a narrow funnel for him to pass. His white trunks clung damply and haggard lines etched deeply into his cheeks. Where was Young? What was happening in that swirl of pennants and gas-coughing motorcade to his rear? Why were the crowds shouting?

The way down Commonwealth Avenue was a mental void, he said, the blood in his eyes coloring the scene crimson. The street was a great shadow-bordered groove which bent suddenly and sharply to the right. For a moment he walked and then as he turned into Exeter street he spent his dying energies in a final furious spurt. Welcoming arms enfolded a blanket about him. Fager hands fixed a ludicrous laurel wreath on his dank hair. The horror was over! The race was won! Hopkinton seemed worlds away!

So said Tarzan Brown, the Pawtucket Indian. For this is his story

Fette Picked to Keep Bees on Top of League

By JACK CONWAY

With a little help from the Weather Man, the Bees took time out this afternoon to smear the Phillies for the second time in the current series. Lou Fette was named by Casey Stengel to do the smearing.

LOU FETTE

LEFTY GROVE

JIM BAGBY

LOU hurls for Bees today, Lefty for Sox against Yanks in New York, while Jim Bagby is due to hurl Boston opener against A's tomorrow.

Casey Stengel smiled to the thought for the evening forecast and announced he would pass his credit to the victory of the season.

The Bees played some night baseball on the holiday by winning from the Phillies in a 10-inning game on the morning by a score of 7 to 6. It was necessary to call off the afternoon game on account of rain.

The postponement of the afternoon and the poor weather conditions for the morning game cost the Bees $20,000. This was a greater financial loss than was suffered in the Battle of Lexington.

Then the Phillies don't come to town frequently, and it isn't good for the Bees to have to go to Philadelphia to get the opposition of defeat and the team from the City of Brotherly Love.

HIT A BALL GAME

It wasn't expected that an extra inning would be required to keep the crowd under control. It was just another day in the life of the Bees. The game was a close one, with the Bees winning by a score of 7 to 6.

Casey Stengel refused to say "Are the Phillies still in the league?"

Since then Stengel has always believed in giving due credit to the Phillies. One can never tell when such an outfit may decide to go places.

In naming Fette to pitch today, Stengel is banking on his best bet. Fette was the first of the "Big Three" of Fette, Turner and MacFayden to round into condition this spring. Lou has never looked better in the early stages of a pennant race, and he plans to make it Victory No. 2 for the Bees.

BEES HIT ROAD Bob Quinn and Casey Stengel would have been more upset by the miserable weather conditions on the holiday if it had not been for the fact the Bees won the morning game from the Phillies.

Following today's game, the Bees hit the road for a short eastern trip during which they play New York, Brooklyn and Philadelphia.

The Red Sox will come home tomorrow for their opening against the Athletics. The Red Sox have been trying to improve their batting by playing bridge in their hotel suites in New York. The

At some time during the game, a pitcher from the Phillies was seen to be in the dugout at Fox.

It is expected that the pattern of the game will be a close one, with the Bees winning by a score of 7 to 6.

Sport Notables To Entertain Jamaica Scouts

A group of sport notables, including several professional athletes, are scheduled to entertain a group of Jamaica Scouts visiting Boston. The event is set for the evening of April 21 at the Hotel Commonwealth. The guests include several well-known figures from the world of sports, who will be joined by the scouts from Jamaica. The entertainment is expected to be a social affair with speeches and a dinner.

REFEREE GEORGE BLAKE walks toward Joe Louis—the winner and still champion—to raise his hand as Jack Roper, contender for heavy eight honors, fails to regain his feet after falling before Louis' savage attack after 2 minutes, 20 seconds of the first round.

BETTER DUCK, MR. DEMPSEY

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP)—Tony the Terrible Galento is' boomed up—all the way to his accented chin in fact at his old pal Jack Dempsey. The day concerning the Galento was really that Two-Ton now has nominated the Old Manassa Mauler as No. 1 on his list of "bums" he can "moult."

What's more, Tony whispers in a voice you can hear, anyway, from here to Keokuk, any time he finds himself in the neighborhood of Main and Dry streets, Orange, N. J., he'd better walk a h his guard up.

"Because as soon as I see him around there," the Galento man said today, "I'm gonna start swinging at him."

There was a day, some five years ago, when "bums" and Jack were all palsy-walsy.

It was when Dempsey, then aged Tony and they were just as close as your next breath. But Dempsey's statement the other day changed all that.

It seems Dempsey was quoted as saying Tony, who tangles with Joe Louis in Yankee Stadium June 23, won't have as much chance as the "200." Jack Roper had against Joe in California last Monday.

"It's more than a thousand-to-one shot," Jack contended.

"Well," Tony shouted to one and all, "I'll tell Mr. Dempsey what I'll do. I got a thousand bucks right here to bet, and he won't have to give me no thousand to one."

"I'll take ten to one on myself to beat Louis. What's more, tell that bum if he gives me the right odds I'll let him I kazo Louis. Now let Jack put up or shut up."

"I know, it looks to me like Jack is not talking for the newspapers again."

"It's funny, whenever he comes around my home state, New Jersey, he looks for me; whenever he goes out West or down South or somewhere else, he raps me and gives me the needles."

AS BATTLE BEGINS, Louis up. He was thrown and Arthur George, who started the fight, the count which opened and at Jack Roper's hand out. He was thrown and Arthur George, who started the fight, the count which opened and at Jack Roper's hand out.

'Irish' Close Diamond Ring Trials Monday

A group of Irish-American athletes are competing in a series of trials for the Diamond Ring. The trials are scheduled for Monday. FARM, BUNGALOW TARZAN BROWN'S GOAL

Marathon Winner Shuns Trip to Finland

By WALTER KILEY

Tarzan Brown is today being hailed as America's greatest Olympic Marathon hope of all time.

But strangely enough, the mahogany-hued Narragansett Indian from Westerly, R. I., isn't particularly interested in making the United States team.

He doesn't care if he never goes to Finland, he told us. "I'd much rather stay at home with my wife and youngsters. By that time my second baby will be coming and I would prefer to do the right thing for them."

FINLAND TRIP OUT

"I don't care if I never go to Finland," he told us. "I'd much rather stay at home with my wife and youngsters. By that time my second baby will be coming and I would prefer to do the right thing for them."

When Leslie Eliason won a year ago the townsmen of Pawtucket gave him an automobile. He doesn't care anything about a new car. But if his friends would let him have a little home with a plot of farming land to it, he'd be happy.

WANTS SMALL FARM

"I don't care anything about a new car. But if his friends would let him have a little home with a plot of farming land to it, he'd be happy."

It would not need to be expensive. All I would ask of it is a little bungalow. What I have in mind would cost about $100. My wife Eliason is aged 1 year, and the new baby would be as comfortable as a cloud.

I don't intend to run forever. I'll never be another Clarence DeMar. I fight for my best time and I'll like to live long enough to win all the biggest Marathons.

"Why she paid a buck apiece for those steaks and she made me eat them almost raw. Then she said if I didn't win it wasn't her fault. She had fed me plenty."

Brown at this writing is just barely getting by on the semi-subsistence allowance of the WPA.

FLOODED!—Cincinnati is playing at Chicago today, and it's just as well, it seems. For the flood waters of the Ohio river have seeped into the Cincy park, and it is doubtful if a game can be played there for weeks.

HANK GREENBERG scores on Rogell's sacrifice fly in eighth inning against White Sox. Catcher is Ken Sylvestri, Chisox rookie. Greenberg's 58 home runs last year left him only two short of Ruth's record.

INCLEMENT WEATHER FAILS TO BOTHER 'LEFTY' GROVE

By JOE CASHMAN
NEW YORK, April 20.—As Cafe Society was heading home to bed this morning, Robert Moses Grove was rudely interrupting the slumber of his Red Sox mates with an announcement that he had seen the sun in the East.

"Do you mean when you were over in Japan?" asked Max Berg and, without waiting for a reply, turned over and went back to sleep.

The other boys, however, leaped from bed and ran to the window. And sure enough, there was Old Sol, after a two-day abdication in favor of fog and rain, back again shining on New York Town.

ALL GAMES THE SAME
It wasn't insomnia resulting from three nights of thinking about pitching the opener that chased Grove out of the hay so early. He awoke with the roosters the year round.

To Old Moss, an opening world's series or All-Star tilt is just another ball game and postponements and inclement weather are as much a part of the pastime as base hits and errors. He's been around too long to have any baseball worries.

He's been asked frequently in the past two days if he weren't hoping it would warm up for the stiff test he's going to give his question-mark arm.

"I don't care one way or the other," he answers. "It's harder for a pitcher to make a ball do tricks on a cold day but it also is harder for batters to hit when their hands are frozen. Hitters improve as much as hurlers on hot days. If I have my stuff, I'll fool batters in zero weather. If I haven't, I'll have my ears planned back regardless of the temperature."

PUBLIC LOSES INTEREST

The inaugural show, originally planned for Tuesday, will be run off without change, if the rivals get together this p. m., but the two successive postponements have taken the edge off the affair as far as the public is concerned.

The Yankee management expected a 50,000 crowd two days back. Now the prediction is 40,000.

And the customers won't see the southpaw duel that would have been offered them had play been possible Tuesday or yesterday. "Grove will pitch for the Sox but 'Lefty' Gomez won't work for the Yanks."

Called to open a series in Washington tomorrow, Manager Joe McCarthy has decided to save Gomez for the Senators and use Charlie Ruffing against the Fenway flock.

The Sox regulars, outside of being restless, are all in fine shape.

GEHRIG WASHED UP

So are the Yankee champions, according to their bosses.

However, if the scribbles who follow the club are to be believed, Lou Gehrig has definitely reached the end of a brilliant career.

The "Iron Man" will be in there today starting consecutive game No. 2123 at first base for the Bronx Bombers, but the prediction is being made freely along Broadway that within a week Larupin' Lou will be on the bench for keeps and that Tommy Henrich will be the regular first-sacker.

After a sorry start in the Southland, Gehrig was reported to be showing flashes of old time form as the Yanks were barnstorming North. However, the observers who wrote those pieces now tell you confidentially that he looked worse than better as the training grind came to a close.

"He can't do anything," said one correspondent. "He pulls away from strikes at the plate. He can't move off a dime after the rest of the players look upon him as a liability to the team. He'll be benched before the end of the month."

While admitting that Henrich is no great shake as a first sacker, these writers opine that the Yanks would be stronger with Tommy at the bat than with Lou.

Joe Cronin, for one, doesn't agree. "I can't believe that Gehrig is as helpless as I hear," says the Sox pilot, "but granting that he is, I'd still rather play the Yanks with Henrich on first. As long as Lou can stagger up to bat, he'll be a threat. The Yanks will miss him plenty if he's forced to quit. Frankly, I think he has at least another year of good ball left."

VITT HAS WORST JOB IN MAJORS

ST. LOUIS, April 20 (AP)—It's already evident as two black eyes that our old friend Oscar Vitt of the mercurial Cleveland Indians is the manager on the spot this year, the one most likely to end up on an exclusive aspirin diet in September.

The Tribe pilot, on the second lap of a two-year contract, finds himself totally surrounded by temperament, questionable pitching arms, lightweight infielders and a front office that appears to cooperate with him heartily only on alternate Tuesdays.

What makes the situation at least doubly delicate for old "O" is the fact that his team consistently is fouled too high.

Judgment of the Indians as a whole seems to be blinded at the sight of the several great stars in their lineup. Deficiencies too often are minimized.

HARDER, ALLEN OUT

If Oscar gets all the breaks he deserves, he might by some miracle land the Indians in third place in the American League. But he has a team that might easily drop clear out of the first division. It is the problem team of baseball.

The Indians are starting off with only one of their "big three" ready for mound duty. That is the downy-cheeked Bob Feller.

Mel Harder is out, temporarily at least, with a sore spot in his upper arm, and Johnny Allen won't be ready before the first of May, if then.

The remainder of Vitt's staff has looked decidedly second-string.

Only Hal Trosky at first and Ken Keltner at third remain of last year's infield.

Skeeter Webb, a slick little fielder of doubtful batting punch, has supplanted Gloomy Lyn Lary at shortstop, and Jim Shilline, a rookie of only passable talent, is at second.

PRIMA DONNAS

Earl Averill, whom the Indians tried to trade for everything except a side of beef during the winter, is back in the outfield alongside volatile Ben Chapman from the Red Sox and Jeff Heath, last year's sensational young slugger.

There's no doubt this trio can flatten the ball, but the handling of Averill and Chapman is not the happiest of Vitt's prospects.

Then, of course, there is the catching department comprising those two dizzied young men, rolling back, Rollie Hemsley and Frankie Pytkak.

Rollie continues to tumble from the wagon with a resounding thump ever so often, and Frankie was sore as a boil down South this spring because he couldn't catch all the exhibition games.

That gives you an idea of the Vitt menagerie.

The club appears to lack some of the spirit it had a year ago. I was not the only correspondent who thought he detected a big change in spring camp this year.

HEMSLEY, TOO

One close observer said the Indians hadn't been the same since the Yankees knocked them winding in that "crucial" series in Cleveland last season.

Chances are that Vitt and "Cy" Slapnicka, the club's vice-president, will have an understanding sooner or later about Hemsley.

They can't go on forever, with Vitt shipping the gay backstop home in "disgrace" every few weeks and Slapnicka sending him right back with an admonition to be a good boy.

Averill, in all probability, will go to Detroit before the June 15 trading deadline, in exchange for a pitcher and infielder. Big Rogell.

Joe & Asbestos

By KEN KLING

Asbestos bet won yesterday on Hash, the roll going to $48.00. Today's horse starts at Tanforan. It is Ken 5-3-4—and we slip $5.00 for place on this baby.

Ken Kling's Cods goes today in the sixth race at Tanforan, which appears:

Gustafson Shows

On Sonnenberg Card

Cliff Gustafson, Scandinavian wrestler from the mid-west, will make his Boston debut a week from tonight when he opposes Frenchy LaRue of France in a preliminary bout on Promoter Paul Bowser's all-star card at the Garden.

Gustafson, 24 years old, and better than 220 pounds in weight, has won the Big 10 collegiate and National A. U. wrestling championships and has successfully toured Europe as a professional.

In the main bout, Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg meets Mayes McLain.

E. L. Completes Staff of Umps

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., April 20

(AP)—Appointment of Al Barlick of Springfield, Ill., to complete the 10-man Eastern Baseball League umpiring staff, was announced today by League President Thomas H. Richardson.

Richardson previously had announced the retention of Charley Moore, Jim Tobin, Jim Boyer, Gus Winters and John Grabowski, members of the 1938 staff, and the signing of four newcomers, Buck Slavin, Claude Tobin, Arthur J. Gore and Les Williams.

This year's staff is the largest in the history of the Class A league.

April Baseball Is Weather Hazard

Archibald Wins Way to Riches

THE POOR WEATHER conditions this week have given those persons who contend the national pastime should not get underway until May another strong argument. The major league clubs have already lost thousands of potential dollars as a result of the soaking they have received from the weather man this week.

It costs a baseball club $25,000 to run its athletes in Florida, California or some equally pleasant place. The opening day crowd usually puts a heavy dent in this expense item.

A ball club never gets all of the money it loses as a result of the postponement of Sunday and holiday games. The double-header season often comes at a time when the home team is in a losing streak, and even the owner and manager are not much interested in watching the games.

Baseball, like all outdoor sports, has the weather hazard. This hazard is at its peak during April. Players who have been carefully trained under clear Southern skies come up with sore arms and colds when obliged to play under conditions such as those that existed at National League Park on the holiday.

The Yankees have taken the biggest licking from the unsatisfactory weather conditions. Their pre-view game with the Senators was postponed and then the first two contests of their series with the Red Sox were prevented by rain. All three games would have drawn large crowds if they had been played.

There will, of course, not be a later baseball opening next year. Club owners will continue to gamble with the weather man, and some day they may succeed in beating him. I still make the weather man a 1 to 3 price in my book for April games.

LEO RODAK

MAX BAER

It was necessary for Archibald to rally in the closing rounds to win over Rodak, who made a surprisingly good showing. Rodak was enabled to overcome the Nate Lewis jinx. During the 39 years Lewis has been in the boxing game, he has had numerous challengers under his management, but they all have failed to win when they have received a crack at the title.

Edward Foster, secretary of the National Boxing Association, did

Tony Galento and Mental Hazards

AL BUCK, boxing editor of the New York Evening Post, is in Boston on vacation, and could not resist having luncheon with Tony Galento and Joe Jacobs.

"Galento won't have any mental hazard when he meets Joe Louis for the world's heavyweight championship in New York on June 28," said Buck. "Tony consumed two large steaks at his meal, and then drank half a dozen bottles of beer. Tony often sits up until 6 a. m. playing cards with Joe Jacobs."

"Tony is quite happy over his new social position among the greats in boxing. I think the fellow really thinks he has a chance of knocking out Joe Louis."

"I believe Galento will make a mistake if he does too much training. He should merely try to reduce his weight a bit. He will need all of his vitality when he opposes Louis, and if he is to win he will have to do so inside of five rounds."

"Galento's weight would crack him down in a long bout. It should be a short battle with plenty of punching while it lasts. As a form player, I must string along with Louis to win by a knockout, but I think Galento is going to give the plenty of thrills and maybe a few laughs before the battle ends."

Galento is going to the Coast for an exhibition tour under the promotion of Tony Palazola of San Francisco. Palazola used to manage Paul Doyle, and formerly sold newspapers in Boston.

CHICAGO, April 20 (AP)—The National A. A. U. had a new indoor swimming queen today—17-year-old Dorothy Leonard of Worcester, Mass.—but Arlie Smith of Chicago continued to rule lowboard diving merrmaids.

Miss Leonard, New England 229-yard free style champion entering her first national meet after two years of competition, dethroned Detroit's Hallie Tomaska last night to win the American title.

She overhauled the defending champion at the finish, winning by a stroke in 2 minutes 33.3 seconds, almost three seconds slower than Miss Tomaska's American record.

Lowboard diving honors went to Miss Smith for the third successive year after a close duel with another Chicagoan, Claudia Eckert.

The third national title decided in the Medinah pool was the 400-yard relay, in which the Women's Swimming Association of New York won in 4:18.9 minutes, five and a half seconds over the record.

The winning team was made up of Lorraine Fisher, Gloria Callen, Helen Rains and Elizabeth Ryan. The Broadwood Club of Philadelphia was runner up.

Plan Two Hikes On Sabbath

Two hikes will be held Sunday under the direction of the WPA division of recreation and the Metropolitan district committee. The long hike, a distance of about eight miles through the Blue Hills, will start from the junction of Randolph avenue and Chickawabum road, Milton, at 11 a. m. Buses marked Fall River, Brockton and Taunton from Ashmont pass the meeting point.

The nature trek will attract the likers to the interesting Stony Brook reservation at Hyde Park and Rosindale, where the staff naturalist will lead the nature strollers from the LaGrange street entrance on Washington street, Rosindale, at 2:30 p. m.

"Frogs, Toads and Salamanders" will be the topic for discussion, and specimens of eggs, tadpoles in varying stages, and adults, will be shown. Swamps are now alive with these wriggling, jumping batrachians, and their peeping and croaking calls are one of the features of our early New England spring. This is an opportunity to learn about these interesting creatures and to study them in their home surroundings.

Any of the contestants in the B. A. A. Marathon took more physical punishment than Archibald and Rodak, and each of the Marathoners was obliged to pay an entry fee of $1.
